The LANDS of JESUS’ DAY

JUDAEA: Roman province named after the longest-surviving tribe of Israel, Judah, but covering much more territory than ancient Judah. (perhaps 50% of old Israel’s land). Here was Jerusalem, Bethlehem, Bethany, Jericho. Jesus was born and was killed here. Ruled by the tyrant son of Herod the Great, Archelaus, until deposed by Rome and replaced with Pilate’s governorship, AD 6.

GALILEE: Originally a district of Naphtali (Isaiah 9:1), now a Roman province. From Joshua’s day, a mixed race of Jews and heathen. More paganism introduced after Assyria’s invasion and colonization. Very distinct accent and ways. “Can anything good come out of Nazareth?” Ruled by Herod Antipas, brother of Archelaus, son of Herod the Great.

SAMARIA: From the city that was capital of the Northern Kingdom, is named the Roman province. Situated in the territory given to Ephraim, it had become an idolatrous assortment of intermarried Jews, despised by the “pure-blooded” of Judea. True Jews would bypass this province altogether in journeys. Except One. Also ruled by Archelaus until Pilate took over.

DECAPOLIS: On the “other” side of the Sea of Galilee. “10 cities” of the Greek expansion into the Middle East after Alexander. Very wealthy, very Gentile, but ministered to by Jesus.

ITURAEA, TRACHONITIS: Northwestern provinces ruled by Antipas’ half-brother Philip. Ishmaelites. Here was Caesarea

PHILIPPI, “Philip’s” Caesarea.

PERAEA: The region “beyond the Jordan” River.

IDUMAEA: Old Edom, south of Judea.

PHOENICIA: North and East, ruled now by Syria, hence a “Syrophoenician” woman ministered to.
